Footballer's 90 minutes of hell waiting for ambulance

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A FOOTBALLLER had an agonising one-and-a-half hour wait for an ambulance after badly breaking his leg during a match.

Joe Daly, 32, was playing for the Rose and Crown team at Motts Field, Haverhill, on Sunday morning when his studs caught in the ground, leading to a spiral fracture to his leg. Horrified players and supporters used coats to keep him warm while frantically calling for an ambulance.

Scott Phillips, manager of the Rose and Crown team, said several people immediately rang for an ambulance and were stunned to be told after more than an hour that one had not been sent – because it was not a life-threatening injury.

He said: "It was the most serious break I have ever seen in my life. He was

Police come under attack as violence flares again

VIOLENCE flared for the second week running in Haverhill town centre early on Saturday morning – and more police officers were attacked.

Fighting broke out in the Bell pub in Haverhill High Street between 2.30am and 3am. Police were alerted by bar staff at the pub that a man had been injured inside. When officers arrived the man started fighting with others inside the pub. He was ejected and the disturbance spilled out on to the street.

A spokesman said: "Officers were involved in trying to separate people and arrest some, with three people resisting arrest quite strongly.

"Some officers were assaulted in the process of trying to arrest these individuals, but no serious injuries were caused. As the incident was not a serious as it could have been, two people were cautioned for assaulting police while resisting arrest."

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

In the early hours of the previous Saturday morning, PC Michael Potter was seriously injured breaking up a disturbance outside the same pub. His shoulder was dislocated and he is expected to be off work until after Christmas. Another officer suffered an injured hand. They were separating two groups involved in a fracas.

A total of seven officers were involved in dealing with the first incident and it is thought that even more were involved in responding to the second, with PAVA spray used to subdue offenders.

Insp Peter Ferrie, the town's newly-appointed sector commander, said the first incident showed the value of recent changes to policing policy, where SNT and response officers work more closely together.

Amazing couple mark 75 years

SURPRISE gifts of champagne and flowers greeted a couple celebrating their 75th wedding anniversary as they visited their local supermarket.

Joe Deeks, 94, and wife Iris, 92, reached the milestone anniversary on Tuesday – and then made their regular weekly shopping trip to the Tesco store in Haverhill the next day.

Claire Bowden, the store's community champion, heard of their anniversary and decided to join in the celebration as the couple visited the coffee shop. She said: "We were thrilled for them and wanted to do something to make their visit a bit special as they do their shopping here every week."

The couple live in School Road, Kedington, but had previously lived in Haverhill for 35 years. Joe was born in Kedington and the couple have known each other since they attended the village school together. Joe worked for 25 years as a senior building control officer for St Edmundsbury Borough Council. He was chairman of Haverhill Ex-Serviceman's Club for many years and is still its president. The couple have two sons, six grandchildren, five great grand-children and one great-great-grandson.

Joe said: "We had a nice modern card from the Queen this time. It is wonderful that we have been married for so long. We grew up together and have known each other all our lives. My doctor told me I have got good genes. It is lovely that we have got each other and we can help each other out all the time. We cook regular meals and sometimes we have a glass of wine. We still do all our own cooking, cleaning and washing, but I cannot do the gardening any more."

Son Peter and his wife Doreen drive his parents to the store each week, but they push their own trolley round to get their groceries. He said: "They do their own shopping and cook a meal every day. I think it is marvellous that they are still so active."

screaming in pain for over an hour. I think it is absolutely disgusting. He had to have one operation and a cage put on his leg, and he will probably have to have another operation. Who knows what damage he might have done, having to wait that long?

"We knew to keep him warm, not give him anything to drink and not move him. He was in absolute agony and it was only when a police lady arrived and called that they did send an ambulance.

"She said they had refused to send an ambulance because it was non life-threatening, which is just beyond me."

From his hospital bed, Mr Daly, a father of two-young children who is due to move from Haverhill to Kedington next month, said he had an initial operation to pull apart the bones in his leg so that they could be straightened and rods put in at a later date.

Ironically, he had only recently started playing football again after a nine-year break because a change of hours in his job as a traffic controller for the Highways Agency meant he would be available again.

He said: "I have broken the same leg before playing football, but this was 10 times worse. I was pretty out of it, but I was told it was about one-and-a-half hours before the ambulance arrived.

"I think I was going into shock by then. My sister works as a radiologist and she could see what a bad break it was. When they turned up they were brilliant, but I think it must have been a breakdown in communications in their control room for it to take so long."

A spokesman for the East of England Ambulance Service said their records showed a 65-minute wait for the ambulance to arrive from the first call logged.

If Mr Daly made a formal complaint, the incident would be fully investigated.

She said: "We appreciate that is still a long time. When we realised how serious it was, we had an ambulance there within 15 minutes.

"We take any complaints very seriously but need them directed to us in order that we can investigate and liaise with the patient directly."

Teenager's bike stolen in attack

A TEENAGER was attacked and his bike was stolen on Halloween by a group of youths wearing hooded tops and masks.

Police are appealing for information after the 14-year-old boy's bicycle was taken from him along St Botolphs Way in Haverhill at about 7.30pm on Monday night.

The boy was cycling towards Castle Lane and passed a group of six or seven 15-16-year-olds. As he passed them, one of the group, a male wearing a grey hooded top and a black mask, ran towards him and pushed him off his bike.

The 14-year-old fell to the floor along with his bike and was then kicked by the male in the hooded top and mask and another male dressed in a lion outfit with a painted face. The bike was then pulled away by one of the group, who cycled away with the rest of the group following. The bicycle was later recovered by a member of the public and was returned to the victim.

Police are keen to trace this group of youths, especially the two male youths involved, and are asking anyone who was nearby and witnessed the incident or anyone with information to contact PC Robert Bunton at Haverhill police by dialling 101, or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Free parking for festive shoppers

FREE parking is being offered to shoppers heading into Haverhill on the four Fridays leading up to Christmas.

Between 8am and 11am on December 2, 9, 16 and 23, there will be no charge for motorists using St Edmundsbury Borough Council's pay-and-display spaces.

Cllr Anne Gower said: "Our shops and market traders appreciate the local support, and free parking also helps folks to save petrol by staying local and getting all the extras we like to buy this time of year. I am delighted that we can offer these three hours of free parking in Haverhill every Friday in December leading up to Christmas."

The free parking only applies to the council's pay-and-display places, not private car parks.

Pub unveils plan for outbuildings

PLANS to change the use of and extend outbuildings to provide overnight accommodation at a pub have been received by planners.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council has received the application for the Queens Head pub in Queen Street, Haverhill. It has also received a listed building application for internal and external alterations associated with the change of use and extension of the outbuildings, as well as insertion of doors into an existing bay window.

Our baby spent last Christmas in hospital... we want to help parents in the same situation

AFTER spending last Christmas watching her tiny baby daughter battling swine flu in Addenbrooke's, mum Natasha Lamb is raising cash to buy treats for parents who find themselves in the same position this year.

Martha Lamb, now 19 months old, spent seven days on a ventilator after being rushed into hospital on Christmas Eve and was moved into intensive care after her condition worsened on Christmas Day.

Mrs Lamb, 36, of Rutland Court, Haverhill, had to leave her older children Joseph, 7, and Finley, 4, at home with dad Phil, while she stayed with Martha. Joseph recalls: "We had pizza for Christmas dinner."

This year the Lambs are looking forward to an extra special Christmas together, but Mrs Lamb wants to try to buy some extras such as food, toys and DVDs to help improve the festive season for those who have to spend it in the paediatric intensive care unit.

She said: "Last Christmas my daughter, 10 months old at the time, was rushed in to A&E on Christmas Eve. At the time we where unsure off what was wrong with her, other than possibly an overwhelming viral infection.

"On Christmas day she took a turn for the worse and that night she ended up needing to be admitted to intensive care and placed on a ventilator to take over her breathing and let her rest. The following day we were told she had swine flu.

"We where very lucky and she fought, and after two days they tried her off the ventilator but within a few hours she needed to be put back on as she just wasn't coping.

"Four more days later we woke her up again and she was getting better, and we finally went home just after all the Christmas holidays had finished.

"Spending Christmas in hospital was a very stressful time. We should have been at home with our family. It was also a very expensive time as I was unable to stay on site after we found out she had swine flu, so I had to travel every day and eat while there.

"The hospital was first-class. It wasn't the Christmas we had expected to have and it was very frightening at the time, but apart from some problems with her chest, she is fine now. I hope that by doing what I am, it will bring a little relief to parents going through it this Christmas."

Mrs Lamb plans to raise some funds and find people to donate some food for food boxes and presents for adults and children who are on the PICU this Christmas. She will be writing to local shops and hopes for support for the local community, including Weekly News readers. Donations can be made at the Weekly News office in Queen Street, Haverhill.

Youth fined over firework in street

A TEENAGER was given an £80 fixed penalty ticket for throwing fireworks in the street.

The 17-year-old was stopped in Market Hill, Haverhill, on October 20 at 6pm, for setting off a firework in the street. PC Rupert Beynon of Haverhill Police warned that others could face similar fines if they did not obey the law.

He said: "We have seized fireworks from a 17-year-old who did not realise it was an offence for under-18s to use fireworks, even if they did not buy them. The build-up to Bonfire Night has been better than in previous years. It is mainly bangers and it is an offence to discharge them in the street."

US entrepreneur boosts plan to move museum

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A COMPUTER museum has attracted support from across the Atlantic with a surprise donation from a leading US entrepreneur.

The Centre for Computing History, currently based in Haverhill, has received a surprise financial contribution to its Cambridge relocation fund from early stage investor and serial entrepreneur Brad Feld. Colorado-based Brad is one of the managing directors of Foundry Group, a venture capital firm focused on making investments in information technology, internet and software companies across North America.

Viewings at the museum, which has very limited space, are by appointment and bosses are keen to move to Cambridge, which is synonymous with the development of home computers, to maximise its potential.

It was at a Business Springboard event in Cambridge that Brad first heard of the Centre for Computing History. Museum trustee Jason Fitzpatrick delivered a short presentation on the major fundraising initiative to finance the relocation and subsequent foundation of a world-class Cambridge Computer Museum.

Mr Feld said: "Jason's presentation provided a snapshot of what has been achieved so far and the short summary was enough to afford a fascinating insight into the vision behind the project and convince me that Cambridge is the obvious location for a standalone museum of this nature.

"The USA has a first-class computer museum appropriately situated at Palo Alto in Silicon Valley. Cambridge is at the heart of Silicon Fen, the UK's, if not Europe's, leading technology cluster.

"Personal computers have had an extraordinary influence on the way we live and the way we view the world.

"My passion is working alongside entrepreneurs to give birth to new technologies and to build those technologies into industry-leading companies. This initiative to establish a computer museum in Cambridge has caught my imagination and admiration. I am delighted to be able to help in terms of sponsorship."

Jason said: "We are deeply appreciative of Brad's generosity. It's so uplifting when individuals make personal contributions of this nature. We are grateful that they share our belief in this venture."

Bugs and beasts gives children a super Halloween

ZOO visitors got in the Halloween mood at some seasonally-themed activities which gave them the opportunity to meet and hold many different creatures which are generally thought of as being "creepy crawly, spooky, scary, slimy, cold and nasty".

Linton Zoo held a range of events over the half-term week and the weekend aimed at giving people a better understanding of some of the animals which have a phobia-inducing reputation. They could also hold a snake, get close up to a big hairy spider or stroke Dusk the barn owl.

There was also a fun pumpkin quiz trail around the zoo and Halloween food and other goodies in the coffee shop, including steaming hot pumpkin and garlic soup, spooky kids' picnic boxes all served up by a wicked trio of witches.

Haverhill Group, Suffolk Family History Society

The October meeting, held jointly with the Local History Society, was a great success. The late arrival of the Pearly King of Peckham was a bit of a worry for chairman Alan Bumpstead, who manfully held the fort and found enough interesting genealogical items to discuss until the shiny buttons of George Major's suit came through the church hall door!

A large audience was then entertained by George's candid views on the life and times of the Pearly families. Now in his 54th year as King of Peckham, he certainly had many tales to tell, and an enjoyable evening was had by all.

The next meeting of the group is on Thursday November 10, at 7.30pm at the Old Independent Church Hall, in Hamlet Road, when Marilyn Marchant will be explaining the recent changes to the Mormon church's website for genealogical research, and demonstrating how to the get the best results from it. This popular Familysearch website is free to use and can be a very useful tool in searching both parish records and censuses.

All are welcome, beginners to family history research as well as regulars.

More details from Alan on 01440 704157.

Clare

The annual Service of Remembrance will be held at the parish church at Sunday November 13 at 3pm.

The parade will start at the Ex-Servicemen's Club at 2.45pm sharp, led by Bury Boys Brigade Band.

This year we will have the re-dedication of the war memorial and we also have 24 guests including the mayor of Clare's twin town Chatillon-Sur-Indre in France.

Everyone is welcome at the service.

If you need details, please phone Sheila Martin on 01787 277533.

Elaine Martin will be on Clare's Market Hill on Saturday, November 5 with her coin collection. This year we celebrate the 90th anniversary of the Royal British Legion.

Unpaid work for benefits couple

Duo who wrongly claimed £28k sentenced

A COUPLE who claimed more than £28,000 in benefits they were not entitled to because they were both working have been sentenced to community orders which include doing unpaid work.

Lee Martin, 37 – who has lost a leg and broken his back – and Christine Martin, 33, both of Garlands Close, Haverhill, had admitted charges of benefit fraud at a previous hearing.

They appeared before Bury St Edmunds magistrates on Tuesday for sentencing. Previously, magistrates adjourned the case for pre-sentence reports to be prepared, with all options open, including imprisonment.

Chairman of the magistrates Joy Watkins-Ellis told the couple, who have children aged 7 and 9: "I appreciate the offences were committed because you were in debt, but you have actually robbed the country of money. We have taken into account your guilty pleas and also the fact that you're making repayments to the state."

Christine Martin admitted three charges of failing to notify changes in circumstances in Thetford between April 2007 to April 2008, when she failed to tell Breckland Council that her husband was working for ID Technology Group.

Then in Haverhill between August 2008 and January 2010 she failed to tell St Edmundsbury Borough Council that her husband was employed by Culina Logistics and that during the same period she was employed by Tesco.

Lee Martin admitted seven charges of failing to give prompt notice of change of circumstances at Thetford and Haverhill between 2007 and 2010, in relation to income support and incapacity benefit he was claiming.

Lee Martin told the court at the earlier hearing: "We were in a lot of debt. I lost my leg in 2006 and I have had seven years of hell, taking up to 165 tablets a week and being in constant pain.

"A lot of the time I was off work sick and having to have operations. I am still having trouble with it now. I broke my back in February and have not been able to work a great deal since then.

"We were just struggling with so much debt and we did not know what to do. We are going to pay it back – we are trying to put things right."

The couple were each given a 12-month community order and ordered to pay £150 each towards prosecution costs, with Lee Martin also to do 240 hours unpaid community work and Christine Martin 150 hours.

Carol Coccaro, for the couple, said Lee Martin was working as a lorry driver and they would be paying back the money at a rate of £227 a month. He said: "The reason for these offences is debt and that has not gone away. The money is being repaid at the maximum amount and there is very little left at the end of each month."

Let's welcome the investors

Sir, over the last few months there have been various articles in this paper referring to plans for a business park and a research park, all within the Haverhill area. Can I be the only person who picks up the newspaper to read about the continued objections to these and many other development plans and honestly wonders why would any professional business developer want to invest a single penny in this town?
I thought that during the present financial climate, which has lasted for many businesses for three or four years, any investment in Haverhill would be grabbed at by every willing-to-work person in the area. Well how wrong could I be? Oh that's right, the volume of traffic coming into the town because of the potential new business parks will kill all existing trade in the town centre, clogging up roads, creating our own little version of the M25 each morning and afternoon. Really! Are they the same objectors who panicked for years at the thought of having 'another' supermarket in town? And now Tesco has at least brought further choice and many jobs to the area.
Maybe I am at the age to be classed as a grumpy old man, but I've always been positive and want to see Haverhill grow and expand for everyone. Lets have investors in the town (no, not another hairdressers or chip shop). Will this not create work for many years and bring a real value to the town?

Taking a back seat yet again?

Sir, I have recently returned from holiday to find that the bus service operated from Haverhill to Bury St Edmunds no longer stops outside West Suffolk Hospital. How can the bus operators justify this by saying that the service is underused when this is the only link that people who do not have their own transport can use to get to hospital appointments, not only from Haverhill but surrounding villages also?
More and more people will be inclined to choose to go to the already overstretched Addenbrookes which, at the moment, has a bus link, resulting in longer waiting time for hospital treatment.
What about people who work at the hospital – do they all live in Bury, or don't they count either?
Another excuse is that people were complaining about being caught in traffic jams. I have never once encountered a traffic jam. Have people nothing else to moan about? Could these people not get out and walk as old and sick people are expected to do from the bottom of the hill to the hospital?
Where were our representatives for Haverhill when this decision was made? I know economics come into this argument but could not a compromise be met whereby at least one bus per day could be used? I am sure there are many people who have the same concerns as myself that, once again, Haverhill takes a back seat.

Please support the RBL's Poppy Appeal

Sir, on behalf of the county council, and mayors and chairmen of the borough and district councils throughout Suffolk, I write to urge everyone in Suffolk to support the Poppy Appeal of the Royal British Legion.
We remember with gratitude those who served in the two world wars and more recent conflicts. They sacrificed themselves so that we could enjoy our freedom. The debt we owe to the brave people who protect our country and its way of life is as real today as it ever was. Our thoughts are with those who continue to fight for our freedom, and who are still prepared to make the ultimate sacrifice in the service of this country and to suffer terrible injuries in its cause. This year we are all very conscious of the casualties in the war in Afghanistan.
I exhort everyone to show special generosity this year in supporting the work of the Royal British Legion, whose services are so vital to the care and welfare of our dedicated servicemen and women and their families.

Patricia O'Brien
Chairman, Suffolk County Council

Family united on day of heartache

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

TOM Dawson would have celebrated his 30th birthday today – had he not tragically taken his own life 10 years ago.

His family will get together to support each other through the difficult day and to continue fundraising for Papyrus, the charity which works to prevent young suicide.

Sister Ruth, 34, has recently completed the Windsor half-marathon and has raised more than £1,100 for the charity in memory of her brother.

Mother Avril, a teacher in Haverhill for many years, said they were very grateful to many friends, including those in the Haverhill area, who had donated.

She said the family had been 'utterly overwhelmed and deeply moved' by how many people had supported the effort so generously.

Ruth said: "Wanting to pay tribute to Tom, and thinking of the significant sum of money donated to this important cause by so many wonderful people, was why I completed the 13.1 miles.

Happier times: Tom Dawson, who took his own life 10 years ago today.

"It was worth every step – thank you all so much."

Mrs Dawson said: "You live with it every day, but we want to prevent any more families going through what we have gone through.

"The problem with young men in particular is that they don't look for help. We did not know before this happened that any of these organisations existed.

"It is one of the most common kinds of death for young men, but most people do not realise it and it is not talked about."

Papyrus supports young people at risk from suicide and those concerned about them, operating a national confidential helpline, engaging with young people to promote positive mental health and emotional well-being and contributing to Government policy-making.

Its website can be found at www-papyrus-uk.org and the helpline number is HOPE LineUK 0800 068 4141.

The fundraising page at www.justgiving.com/Ruth-Dawson is still open for donations.

Appeal for families to host students

STUDENTS from all over Europe will be joining a newly-created academy next year – and host families are needed to accommodate them.

Samuel Ward Academy at Haverhill will welcome the students to join its outstanding sixth form and in order for them to gain the most from their English experience, is looking for host families from September 2012 to June 2013. Host families are asked to provide room and board and be willing to welcome the student into their home as a member of their family.

A full-time member of staff will be responsible for the students' emotional welfare.

Students will require their own room with the facility to study, wireless internet and full board. Host families will be reimbursed with £100 per week.

Anyone who feels they might be able to accommodate one of the students, or who would like more information, should contact Ms Bergau via jbergau@samuelward.co.uk.

A criminal records check will be completed for host families.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Tim Law feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Cambridge, Ely, Saffron Walden, Haverhill, Royston & Newmarket areas and Tim is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Tim a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Appeal for more parents to adopt children

BY JENNIE BAKER

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

RISING numbers of children in Suffolk are awaiting adoption – and the county's adoption agency has called for more prospective parents to come forward.

About 30 children are on the waiting list for a permanent family and the number of looked-after children who need to be adopted has increased significantly in the last year and a half.

The county council has said Suffolk's children are waiting longer before being adopted, or are faced with leaving the county altogether to find a home.

Department of Education figures have revealed almost half of the more than 150 local authorities failed to place 75 per cent of children awaiting adoption with families within 12 months of being put on a waiting list.

But in Suffolk, permanent homes were found for 79 per cent of the young people on its waiting list within a year and neighbouring Cambridgeshire hit the 80 per cent mark.

Suffolk Adoption Agency is supporting the British Association for Adoption and Fostering's National Adoption Week campaign, which ends on Sunday, in its bid to increase awareness about adoption in the county.

The agency is seeking families in particular for children older than 3 and sibling groups and emphasised everyone is welcome to apply.

Sally Stoker, of the Suffolk Adoption Agency, said: "There are no blanket bans in adoption, so please don't think we will turn you down because you're over 40, single, or don't own your own home.

"What we really need are people who can offer a child or sibling group a loving, supportive family for life. People who can help a child recover from the reasons why they came in to care and can help them go on to thrive in a new family."

Cllr Graham Newman, Suffolk County Council's portfolio holder for children, schools and young people's services, said: "Considering the number of children in our county needing loving and supportive families, I would urge anyone who has ever considered adoption to get in touch and find out more.

"During National Adoption Week we really want to dispel the myths around who can adopt and encourage people to come forward to find out more about adoption in Suffolk."

MP welcomes council move

PLANS by two councils to save £2m by sharing services including a single chief executive and management team have been welcomed by the area's MP.

Forest Heath District Council and St Edmundsbury Borough Council formally announced their latest shared services agreement this week.

Mr Hancock said: "It shows local councils uniting together to work to save money and keep council tax low in these tough times.

"The appointment of a single chief executive and management team will strengthen the shared services programme already in place.

"Most importantly, it will mean that an initial £2m of taxpayers' money will be saved by the two councils working closely together, money which can then be spent on front-line services where it is really needed."

It's all fright on the night

WITCHES and ghosts haunted a park when it was transformed for an annual Halloween Trail.

The event at the East Town Park in Haverhill has become a tradition which attracts hundreds of visitors each year.

Youngsters in the town got help to dress the part this year, as make-up artist Avril Iles held a workshop at the Arts Centre on Monday, with images also created there put up around the park. The free event for all the family is organised by Haverhill Town Council.

Nick Keeble, leisure manager for Haverhill Town Council, said the event had been held for more than 10 years.

He said: "We estimated more than 4,000 people and it was certainly the biggest one we have ever had, and one of our biggest events ever in the town.

"We were really pleased with how it went; people seem to love it and the park just looks fantastic. We were delighted with it. Because we had far more people to deal with, we had to keep people waiting for some time, but everyone was very patient, even though there were queues right down to Coupals Road right up to 7.45pm."

Tracey Davey and husband Paul of Recreation Road, Haverhill, took 8-year-old son Ryan along to the event in his skeleton costume and were so impressed that they wanted to get hold of photographs of it.

Mrs Davey said: "It was the first year he was brave enough to go and it was absolutely fantastic. I just could not understand how they don't charge for it. We put about £5 in the tub and we would have been willing to pay.

"It was all amazing, especially the man in the vampire costume hanging from a pole.

"It was completely brilliant and I could not believe it is free. People said there were more there than last year – I think it was about 5,000.

"We were glad that we got there early as they were queuing up right back to the rubbish tip. It was completely awesome and such a brilliant thing for Haverhill."

Dad survives 100ft mountain plunge

Fall guy: Mark Saberton and son Alfie, who watched his dad's terrifying fall down Scafell Pike.

Picture: Keith Heppell 780635

A HIGHPOINT prison officer who plummeted 100ft down England's highest mountain and lived to tell the tale has described his terrifying ordeal to the Weekly News.

Mark Saberton, 38, was climbing Scafell Pike in the Lake District with his 11-year-old son, Alfie, and work colleague Dave Lomas, when he slipped on a rock.

They had just reached the peak of the 3,209ft mountain when he tumbled 100ft down, crashing against boulders and somersaulting over rocks before landing on his back, as his petrified son and friend looked on.

Miraculously, he survived the horrific fall, although he did crack his head open and suffered deep cuts and extensive bruising.

Speaking from his home in Collier Close, Ely, he said: "I simply cannot thank the people who rescued me enough.

"They all said that it was a miracle I wasn't killed and I honestly can't believe I'm alive today."

The petrifying incident happened on Saturday, October 8 and Mr Saberton was only able to return to work on last Sunday.

He said: "Alfie and I have climbed a few mountains before, including Snowdon.

"The three of us camped overnight on the Friday and reached the peak of Scafell just after 1pm on Saturday.

"We spent some time at the top before starting our descent and literally five minutes after we set off, I slid on a rock.

"I tried to stop myself from falling but I couldn't. I just tumbled and rolled down. I kept on rolling and somersaulting, hitting boulders on my way down.

"I could hear Alife screaming. I then came to a halt flat on my back and could feel the blood running down my head."

A couple who were walking ahead of Mr Saberton rushed to his aid and with the help of Alfie, a student at Ely College, and Mr Lomas, managed to bandage his head and dial 999.

The mountain rescue team were called but because the weather was too foggy, it was impossible for a helicopter to land.

Instead, a team of 25 people from the Wasdale Mountain Rescue Team had to track him down using a GPS system and then carry him down the mountain to safety.

Mr Saberton was taken to Whitehaven Hospital in Cumbria – and unbelievably was released the next day.

He said: "Hearing Alfie screaming does still haunt me and I certainly won't be going up a mountain anytime soon.

"I definitely thought I'd broken bones. Although extremely painful, my injuries were all superficial and my head is now glued back together.

"I'm so eternally grateful to the rescue team who got me off that mountain.

"Until something like that happens to you, you just don't realise how lucky you are to be alive."

Spotlight falls on affordable homes quest

TWO new housing schemes which provide 26 affordable homes have been visited by MP Matthew Hancock.

Havebury Housing welcomed the West Suffolk MP to two of its supported housing schemes in Haverhill to celebrate Supported Housing Month.

The campaign, led by the National Housing Federation, was taking place throughout October to raise awareness of the supported housing sector.

Havebury has 16 sheltered housing schemes, enabling older people and those with learning difficulties to live independently while having access to help via an alarm system.

Havebury Chief Executive Karen Mayhew accompanied Mr Hancock, Cllr Anne Gower and other invited guests at

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

two of the partnership's newest supported housing schemes last Friday.

She said: "River House in Chalkstone Way is a scheme of nine apartments, bringing much-needed homes to a former Brownfield site.

"These one- and two-bedroom properties have been life-changing for the residents who live there.

"The scheme is the result of much hard work between Havebury and Adult and Community Services, with strong support from St Edmundsbury Borough Council, Suffolk County Council and the Homes and Community Agency, without whom it could not have proceeded."

Mrs Mayhew and the group also visited Horace Eves in Withersfield Road, which has provided 17 new homes in a scheme of mixed tenures.

"It combines home ownership with general needs lettings and includes accommodation for adults with learning difficulties," she said.

"Again, we must thank St Edmundsbury Borough Council for their support as well as Adult and Community Services and the Homes and Community Agency for grant funding."

Mr Hancock said: "The new housing schemes at River House and Horace Eves in Haverhill will improve the lives of many people.

"The schemes provide much needed support to key public services, through reducing the pressure on the NHS, policy and other agencies by providing personalised support services. "

Swing time's here again

SWINGS which were more than 50 years old have been replaced as part of an upgrade of a village recreation ground.

Cllr Jane Midwood of Suffolk County Council unveiled a sign in the garden area in corner of car park for the official opening ceremony at Thurlow Recreation Ground, which was also attended by MP Matthew Hancock and other partners in the project.

The new swings are sited within the village play area, while the enlarged car park and improved access will allow local residents and visitors to the recreation ground to park safely, instead of on the main road.

It has taken the four village partners in the project, Great and Little Thurlow parish councils, Thurlow Sports Club and Thurlow Estate, the landowner, two years to see the project come to fruition.

The original cost of the project was £20,000, but this was reduced by £10,000 when it was given a timely boost earlier this year, when Essex and Suffolk Water and Farrans (Construction) Ltd were approached and agreed to become involved.

Essex and Suffolk Water and Farrans (Construction) Ltd, who have been laying a pipeline along the River Stour valley from Kirtling to Abberton Reservoir near Colchester, generously agreed to carry out the groundwork and supply materials for the car park as a gesture of goodwill for the benefit of the local community.

Further landscaping of the car park area will be carried out during the spring of 2012 to complete the project.

More people do first aid course

MORE people than even before are taking first aid course which could help save a life.

The number of people taking first aid refresher courses has rocketed in the last nine months in Suffolk, according to St John Ambulance.

The Health and Safety Executive strongly recommends that first aiders attend an annual refresher course every 12 months to ensure they remember their vital first aid skills. Laws and best practice can also change, leaving people out of date with current methods.

People in Suffolk have taken the message to heart and attendance has increased by 78 per cent.

Sue Skoyles, regional training manager for St John Ambulance in the East, said: "It's important that first aiders brush up on their first aid knowledge every year to avoid what we call 'skills fade'. To be faced with an emergency situation and then struggle to remember your first aid training can be a traumatic experience.

"Most people are surprised at how much they remember when they come on a refresher course. They are also relieved to be given the chance to practise without the stress of a real-life emergency. Around 150,000 people die every year because of a lack of a first aid so these really are important skills to have and to keep up to date."

St John Ambulance runs regular three-hour skills update courses for anyone who has been on an Emergency First Aid at Work or similar course. The refresher provides an opportunity to practise and update attendees' skills at any time during the three year period as a qualified first aider.

For more details on training courses, contact St John Ambulance on 0844 324 5535 or book online at www.sja.org.uk/training.

WHO'D a thought?
Although Lardy was my dad's mate, from school,he was round our house every day playing Fifa on the PlayStation, with me.
He told kids' jokes (that I was too young to get).
"Why didn't the skeleton go to the party?
Because he had no body to go with!"
We'd crack up. When Lardy laughed, his whole body wobbled and his creased-up work top (the one he always wore) rose up, exposing his hairy belly.
Lardy and Dad worked together and played football for the Woolwich pub at Motts field, my favourite because there was a park.
Afterwards, back at the pub, Lardy would tell me to hide the toad-in-the-hole and chips in my belly, before anyone nicked them.
Lardy broke his leg. He had a month off work and couldn't play football.
Then dad changed jobs.
We lost touch.
Last Saturday morning, I bumped into Lardy outside Burtons. "Hello mate!"
He had the same laugh but shyer.
He looked fit and really thin.
He told me he's married, has two little girls.
Who'da thought.

The future's Rosie

Blind since the age of 3, Rosie Fish can't remember what her mum looks like. But she's just graduated from college – and is also turning heads as a talented artist. She talks to Jenny Hulme.

ROSIE Fish is busy packing, getting ready to catch the train to London, where she's meeting friends to travel out to France. Having recently graduated from college, she's taking this trip to celebrate graduation, and to eat, drink, and brush up on her French language skills. An autumn adventure for any 21-year-old, but for Rosie, it is so much more. When she started college a couple of years ago, Rosie didn't believe she'd ever be able to go shopping on her own, never mind embark on this kind of vacation.

Rosie grew up in Newmarket and, aged 3, developed a cancerous tumour which destroyed her optic nerves. Today she can sense a glow of light on her eyes when the sun is shining, but has seen nothing else for the last 18 years. She is one of thousands of young people in the UK who live with sight loss, but she is also someone who demonstrates how and why that shouldn't hold you back.

"It was hard for me to understand when I was little," says Rosie, now 21. "I was like 'what's happened? Turn the light back on, mum.' It was hard for mum (Cheryl) too, and the rest of my family. How do you explain to your 3-year-old they will never be able to see any more?

"Mum was so strong though. I can't actually remember what she looks like, though memories of the experiences we had together and feelings we shared when I was little and as I grew up are clear in my mind.

"I can remember some shapes. I can, strangely, remember what Peter Pan looked like. That was the first and last movie I ever saw and he must have been etched on to my memory, he was so magical.

"But children adjust. You just adjust."

There was a lot of adjusting. Going to a mainstream school – Rosie attended Thurlow Primary School, then Parkway Middle School – dealing with her parents' divorce ("maybe the marriage suffered by what we had been through"), and then moving to a residential school in Worcester at 13 to study GCSEs.

But it was a trip to The Royal National College for the Blind (RNC) in Hereford that changed the way Rosie thought about her future.

"When I was at school I could manage, I could do things, but I was pretty average," she says.

"Then at Worcester I started to sense what people could achieve. I started to appreciate the achievements of high-profile blind people like David Blunkett and Stevie Wonder, who had also lost their sight. I loved going to concerts to hear blind musicians. I could sit there and think that you wouldn't know they were blind. You start to think about what is possible.

"The trip to Hereford, though, was amazing," remembers Rosie. "There was a feeling of good things all around. A sense of opportunity, of the chance to realise ambitions, that is hard to describe. People seemed inspired, interacting with each other and the general public in a different way. I knew I wanted this too."

Rosie applied and was accepted to study massage and complementary therapy – a vocation she quickly proved she was made for – but it came as part of a

The Royal National College for the Blind is a national charity and the leading specialist college of further education for students with sight loss. Next year it celebrates its 140th anniversary, and thousands of success stories like Rosie's. It caters for students aged 16 to 65, welcoming those who have always been blind or visually impaired, as well as students who have more recently lost their sight (as a result of illness or an accident) and who want to retrain.

As well as offering GCSEs and AS and A-level studies, they have vocational programmes including massage and complementary therapy (Rosie's choice), sport and recreation, business studies, IT, music and media technology and performing arts.

Courses of study are created to match a student's individual ambitions and needs, but are always combined with relevant living skills like Braille, mobility and independent living, and a range of leisure activities.

A student village, which benefits from a new, world-class sports and leisure complex, offers single ensuite bedrooms. Students are fully supported by an experienced residential team.

Friends and new experiences are an essential part of life at the college, and a pastoral support team ensures students learn new skills and are able to access activities they might not have thought possible.

Funding is available for students who feel they would benefit from specialist education as opposed to studying at their local mainstream college. If you want any advice about how to access this, call RNC's inquiry line on (01432) 376621 quoting Cambridge Newspapers Ltd. They not only advise on opportunities at the college, and funding for education in Hereford, but can put you in touch with courses and activities in Cambrideshire.

timetable filled with additional enrichment activities and independent living skills training that also had a huge impact on her life.

"I remember the tutors telling me I'd be able to go down and shop in the city on my own, and in my head I was thinking 'yeah, sure. You don't know me.' But they mix in mobility and independent living skills with the studies . . . washing, cooking, using public transport, computer skills, Braille, home finance, that sort of thing.

"The day I got on the bus and went to Tesco and did my shopping was an amazing day. It sounds daft, but the feeling of being independent was brilliant.

"It's not about wanting to do everything on your own. It's about having the confidence to do what you can, and to ask for what you can't. To go into Tesco and get the help you need, and then to get back on the bus and go home and cook a meal with friends and sit round the TV for X Factor. Honestly, I loved it. I loved every minute of my time there. I made friends that I know I will have for ever."

Rosie also discovered a love of art, and one of her finest pieces – a beautiful tree made from ceramics – was donated to the college when she graduated, and now takes pride of place in their gallery in Hereford.

Rosie, say her lecturers, was one of the most sought-after therapists in the college-based Complementary Therapy Clinic, designed for student work experience before they leave college.

"She always works unbelievably hard," says RNC's head of complementary therapy, Jane Crabtree. "She's insightful, empathetic and talented. That's why clients seek Rosie out. With her art you can see her focus, and she's like that as a therapist too."

"I think with art there is no right or wrong. It is about self expression," explains Rosie. "People sometimes ask me if I am angry about my disability, or frustrated. Sure, you have dark days, but if you direct that into something like art, you can express it without it holding you back.

"I've always loved and been intrigued by trees, even though I can't remember ever seeing one. But in my spare time at college I went up to Queenswood, a 67-acre collection in Herefordshire's ancient woodland. I came back with a piece of Redwood bark and created prints, pushing the bark into polystyrene and then polystyrene into clay," says Rosie.

"That's where the tree started. I created an idea, an outline in my head, and then expressed it in the clay, and employed beautiful glazes which feel – so I hope look – stunning. When I finished in the summer, I left my tree behind, as a kind of thank-you to all the amazing teachers and students who've transformed my confidence and independence – the people who had changed my life and my prospects."

Rosie has just returned to Hereford to receive her professional qualification from Ryan Kelly, another ex-RNC student who was born blind and who studied performing arts at the college before moving to London to work as an actor. He now plays Ed Grundy's renegade pal Jack 'Jazzer' McCreary in Radio 4's The Archers.

Alongside Rosie were students picking up their A-level certificates (now studying at mainstream universities) as well as graduates in business, music technology, sport, and a few blind footballers from the college's Blind Football Academy, who are hopeful of qualifying for next summer's Paralympics.

"I think a lot of people are put off specialist education today – and sure, it is tempting to stay at home and study locally if there is no special school," says Rosie. "But I'd encourage people to have a look at what is out there, and to get advice about the funding available for specialist education. There is funding available. College is such a short time in your life, but can change everything in such a major way if you choose the right one.

"You are learning along with people in the same boat, and learning from each other. Then, when you leave, you have so many more choices about where and how you live and work.

"I guess that is what we are all celebrating now, and what we want to share with all the people out there who, like us, can't see, but can still achieve so much."

Cathy takes on race fundraiser

BY JORDAN DAY
Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THE memory of a West Wratting girl has inspired a student to battle through her asthma when she takes part in next year's London Marathon.

Cathy Thomson, of The Crescent, Wicken, near Ely, has won a place in the 26-mile challenge on behalf of Help the Hospice, after her personal experience in helping disabled and terminally ill people make the most of their lives gave her the drive to overcome her own health concerns.

The 21-year-old's inspiration for training and completing the April event will be 11-year-old Chelsey Boreham, who died in February after a lifelong battle with cerebral palsy.

Chelsey, who lived with parents Ian and Sara and brother Ashley in High Street, West Wratting, was diagnosed with her condition at birth and contracted lung disease a few years later.

She spent her last days in East Anglia's Children's Hospices' Milton centre after falling ill with pneumonia.

On her marks: Cathy Thomson is counting down to next year's London Marathon.

Picture: Richard Patterson 778925.

She said: "I first met Chelsey in 2007 when I worked as a teaching assistant at Granta School in Linton.

"I helped her at school and at home. She was a really happy girl despite what she was going through.

"She enjoyed herself and made some really great connections with people, despite not being able to verbally communicate."

She added: "My time with her has had a massive effect on me and I owe her a lot. She inspired me to carry on helping other people and I really loved her."

Cathy left the Granta school earlier this year and has embarked upon a three-year course in disability studies at Bedford University – with the aim of becoming a teacher.

She has set herself a fund-raising target of £2,000, and will not let her own health issues get in the way of her objective.

She said: "I suffer badly from asthma and it does worry me that when I am training I could have a serious attack on my own.

"But I have the motivation to do it and that is more important – it will take me through."

Christmas "All wrapped up"

Discover your inner decorative identity

ARE you a traditional bauble belle or crazy for kitsch come Christmas? Discover your decorative inner self – with products to match.

Preparing and decorating the house for the festivities can be quite an ordeal. With a lack of time and money, and an eye-popping array of glitz and glitter everywhere you turn on the high street, it's hard to know where to start.

Follow this guide to identify your Christmas style and snap up the decorations that will best adorn your home...

TERRIFIC TRADITIONALIST

You're a big fan of Christmas and nothing is too festive for you.

You're more likely to opt for an old-fashioned real tree, adorned with as many decorations as you can hang on it and lights that put the Blackpool Illuminations to shame, but it's all done in a very classy way.

The tree is the main focal point in your home at Christmas, but you're also keen to spread joy throughout the rest of the house. There's a wreath on the front door, holly on the table and all the trimmings come Christmas dinner.

WHAT YOU NEED

■ Frosted Pearl Bauble in White, £3, John Lewis

■ Mistletoe Flitter Glass Bauble in Gold, £3, John Lewis

■ Gisela Graham Folk Painted Wooden Reindeer, £5.50, Selfridges

■ Wooden Santa Lorry Advent Calendar, £35.95, Selfridges

■ Rocking Horse Tree Decoration in Red, £1.95, DotComGiftShop

■ Dining Chairs, £250 for a pair; Elegance Dinner Set, £30 for a set of 12; Natural Faux Fur Throw, from £40; Mini Glitter Trees, £6 for a set of five; Gold Lustre Wine Glasses, £18 for four; Gold Foil Runner, £16; Heart Bowls Dip Set, £8; Portobello Chandelier, £90; Vintage Candelabra, £24; 50 Piece Mixed Shatterproof Bauble Set, £10; Ethnic Lantern, from £30, all from Next.

MAGICAL MODERNIST

You're happy to put a few decorations up at Christmas time, but you certainly don't want it to mess up your minimalist home.

You're a fan of clean lines with everything in its place and prefer a few funky touches to a sea of red and green.

The presents and the people are the main focus on December 25, not a collection of reindeer, harmonising to the sounds of Rockin' Around The Christmas Tree.

WHAT YOU NEED

■ Silver & Pearl Wreath, £25, John Lewis

■ Gisela Graham White Metal Leaf Top Star, £19.95, Selfridges

■ Hanging Antique Silver Bauble Lamp, £24.95, DotComGiftShop

■ Glass Decoration, £3.50, Debenhams

■ Becara Miniature Gold Metal Christmas Tree, £67, www.gift-library.com

■ 6ft Woodland Tree, £120; Tripod Floor Lamp, £199; Paper Snowflake, £9.50; Modena Sofa (medium), £999; Reindeer Print Cushion, £19.50; Foil Printed Cushion, £19.50; Fair Isle Knit Throw, £35; Morrissey Coffee Table, £349, all from Marks & Spencer

FESTIVE FASHIONISTA

Decorating the home at Christmas is a necessity for you, but it often ends up being a bit last minute, as you need to find the time to buy the season's most on-trend items.

You're not the sort of person to drag all the boxes down from the loft and pop up the same decorations every year. Home accessories are really important to you and just because it's Christmas, doesn't mean style has to go out the window. You follow the advice and tips from big buyers on the high street and always invest in new pieces every year.

Festive decor: A great way to release your imagination.

WHAT YOU NEED

■ Jewelled Snowflake Glass Bauble, £1.50 each, John Lewis

■ LED Pearl Light String, £16.99, Lakeland

■ Owl Head Bauble, £3, John Lewis

■ Star By Julien Macdonald Mini Diamante Votive, £8, Debenhams

■ Becara Glass Gold Baubles, available in three sizes – small £11, medium £20, large £48, www.gift-library.com

■ Snowy Paper Tree, £50; 50 Piece Mixed Shatterproof Bauble Set, £10; Mosaic Mirror Cone Tree, £12; Glitter Polar Bear, £10; Opus white nest, £99 for a set of two; white faux leather Blake Chair, £399; Starburst Cushion, £14; Ice Bauble Garland, £18; Silver Sparke Rug, from £80, all from Next

Lots of ways to achieve calm

WHY wait until January to start looking after yourself? Here are several ways to stay calm and guilt-free over the festive season.

We all want to eat, drink and be merry over the festive season, but preferably without making ourselves ill – or gaining a dreaded stone in weight.

These top tips will keep you looking svelte and relaxed for all those parties.

Fly high: When you start to feel a bit nerve-wracked, it might be time for a bit of letting-go!

GYM BUDDIES

It's easy to say you'll join a local gym in the new year, but there's really no time like the (Christmas) present.

Treat yourself to membership now. Once the novelty wears off, it might seem like a chore, so team up with a friend and you can encourage each other to go.

TAKE IT AWAY

With the to-do list growing ever longer, it's tempting to call for a quick and easy takeaway.

But if you're indulging in fast food regularly, it might be time to cut back. In the run-up to Christmas, stick to one night a week at the most and let the family take it in turns to pick their favourite. You'll get your fast food fix, without the guilt.

COMIC RELIEF

The festive period is great fun, but sometimes tempers can fray.

Life coach Eve Magrett has come up with an easy technique to help you keep cool when family members get on your nerves. She says: "Imagine a cartoon character that looks really silly. Every time you get frustrated, let the character mimic the person annoying you. Your mood will improve so you can handle the situation with a smile on your face."

AN APP FOR THAT

Time to think about how you can make your smartphone work for you!

GetJar, the world's largest free app store, has thousands of health ones, including exercise plans, personal trainers, heart rate monitors and diets. Try WalkMe – a walking assistant that tracks your speed, distance and steps taken. Or Smart Yoga for moves to improve your posture.

YOUTHFUL GLOW

The key to healthy, glowing skin lies in what you eat, says nutritionist Amanda Ursell.

Dark green veg, mangoes, carrots and sweet potatoes contain goodness that protects your skin from the harmful effects of the sun. Oats contain a mineral that keeps skin cells healthy, while almonds contain skin-enhancing Vitamin E.

GET ORGANISED

Take time out from the festive madness to plan your new year resolutions.

It can be difficult to know where to start, but life coach Eve Magrett recommends choosing just one or two at a time and setting a two-month deadline. "Once they're completed, pick another. This way you'll feel more organised and motivated, and be able to cross more things off your list," she says.

DEEP CLEAN

Before all your family and friends descend, take time to give your home a thorough Christmas clean.

Getting rid of the lingering germs will actually improve your health. Get into a good routine of regularly cleaning throughout 2012 and use a quality disinfectant to wipe out bad bacteria that cause viruses.

BREAK-FEAST

A good brekkie will set you up for the day and give you stamina for all that shopping, cooking, cleaning and socialising!

If you're a serial breakfast dodger, make an effort to eat every morning. Porridge and muesli include oats which release energy slowly and keep you fuller for longer, says nutritionist Amanda Ursell.

Society to take charge of libraries

BY JENNIE BAKER

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

SUFFOLK County Council plans to set up an independent society to oversee its libraries after it was forced to abandon a "Big Society" drive for communities to take them over.

The council had threatened to close two-thirds of its 44 libraries unless community groups were found to take control.

The scheme was part of the council's New Strategic Direction plan, which would have seen virtually all services outsourced and was regarded as a model for other cash-strapped authorities.

The unpopular strategy was abandoned by the Conservative-led authority earlier this year following the departure of chief executive Andrea Hill by mutual consent after a row over her expenses claims.

Council officials now hope to set up an industrial and provident society, a first for UK library services.

Judy Terry, cabinet lead for the libraries review, said the move, likely to be ratified by councillors this week, would set up an independent body free from council bureaucracy.

She said: "We are not abandoning the idea of community groups becoming involved in the running of their libraries – we have found that many would actually welcome that.

"Community groups will be able to opt for a level of responsibility they feel able to take on.

"The model does not rely on volunteers to maintain current service levels but volunteers could be used to offer enhanced services.

"The model we've developed will put Suffolk's library service on a strong and sustainable footing for the future."

The society would hold charitable status but be funded by a council grant.

Remembrance memorabilia on show

MILITARY memorabilia and items from the Home Front are included in a Remembrance display in Haverhill Library as part of this years' Poppy Appeal.

Members and friends of the Haverhill Branch of the Royal British Legion will launch the display with a coffee morning on Saturday from 9am.

Forty years of acting up

JENNIFER SHELTON talks to actress Lesley Manville about her chameleon qualities as her latest collaboration with Mike Leigh comes to Cambridge

BACK TO THE FIFTIES: Lesley Manville in Grief and, above, with Ruby Bentall as her daughter, Victoria.

THERE'S no typecasting Lesley Manville. The actress's near-40-year career has seen her tackle an astonishing range of roles, from soap opera pretty-girls in her teens to a social-climbing yuppie in Serious Money at the Royal Court Theatre, and desperate hanger-on Mary – arguably the most captivating character in Mike Leigh's most recent film, Another Year.

In fact, so successfully does she disappear into roles that it's easy not to recognise her – it was only when I began delving into her CV that I realised it was also Manville under the lacy bonnet as Mrs Rose in Cranford.

This week, Manville brings us another of her and Leigh's creations, a 1950s widow and single mother struggling with depression in Leigh's new play, Grief.

"I like being a chameleon," says Manville. "I think a lot of the success of my career is that I don't get pinned down with types of characters. I love playing people who don't look or sound like me."

And it's Leigh, she says, who first helped hone the versatility which has since characterised her work. After abandoning her O-levels to join stage school, Manville was spotted by Leigh in her early 20s while she was working for the RSC. Now 55, she has appeared in seven of Leigh's films – more than any other member of his repertory company.

"That's when things started to change for me," she explains. "He was going to do a play for the Royal Shakespeare Company, so we started working together and it was terrific. That was when I realised I could be an actress who doesn't just play herself, which was, up until that point, all I'd been doing. Unfortunately that project, which would have been a play, never came off; so this will be the first time I've done a play with him."

Grief, follows the strained relationships between a housewife, her unambitious older brother and her introverted teenage daughter in post-war English suburbia.

"It's the sort of play that hits you right between the eyes," says Manville. "It's an uncompromising hour and 55 minutes but the acting in particular has had very good reviews, so we're all very pleased."

Manville describes her character, Dorothy, as "a grieving woman who's not managed to recover from the death of her husband".

"Once he's died," she continues, "she discovers she's pregnant, so she brings up this child by herself. She's struggling and lonely: she's trapped in a mire of grief which she can't move out of."

It's in stark contrast to Manville's own experience of single-parenthood. During the early years of her career, Manville was also single-handedly bringing up her son, Alfie, after splitting from husband Gary Oldman just three months after the birth.

"I wanted to keep my career going at the level it had been going at, and I also wanted, and continue to want, to be the best mother in the world," she says warmly. "I wouldn't let either be compromised. Until he was about 3, I only did theatre, which meant I was able to be with him all day. Then I could put him to bed and get to the theatre. Of course, I was knackered. But I was fuelled by the joy of my son and the work I was doing. And now I've got a fantastic 22-year-old and a fantastic career."

Indeed, Manville's career has only continued to blossom and, after rave reviews at the Cannes Film Festival, many expected an Oscar nod for her raw, heartbreaking performance in Another Year (for which she and Leigh held a Q&A at the Arts Picturehouse in Cambridge after its release last November).

But the combination of a particularly strong year for female leads – the Best Actress field included Julianne Moore, Nicole Kidman, Natalie Portman and Juliette Binoche – and the complex category system itself meant that Manville missed out. It was a largely unpopular decision.

She explains: "Sony Pictures Classics, who released Another Year, were so dedicated and supportive of me but were hell-bent on campaigning me for the leading actress category.

"I think in hindsight they feel that if they'd have downgraded me to the supporting category, I'd have had a better chance."

There are superficial similarities, perhaps, between Dorothy in Grief and Manville's character in Another Year, whose future appears similarly bleak. Yet, as Manville puts it: "With Mary in Another Year her depression comes out as this incessant talking, whereas with Dorothy in Grief it's the complete reverse. Her depression makes her retiring. The 50s was a great period of not talking; of people not saying what they felt. Especially with the middle classes, which is what this play deals with."

She adds: "I think it would be honest to say I'm pretty good at accessing those depths of loneliness and pain, and conveying characters who struggle with that. I don't know why – I have a nice life," she laughs.

■ Grief*, Cambridge Arts Theatre, until Saturday at 7.45pm (2.30pm Thursday and Saturday matinee, post-show talk Friday). Tickets from £15. Contact (01223) 503333 / www.cambridgearts theatre.com.

From nylon strings to silver to Streisand ... it's a crazy week

IN 15 months D'Ukes, a diverse group of musicians, have played festivals, theatres and regional radio, and established the first ukulele festival for Essex and East London.
Come along to Haverhill Arts Centre on Saturday at 8pm and witness their enthusiasm for playing a small instrument with four nylon strings. The ukulele has received a makeover for the 21st century and the eclectic mix of music is guaranteed to get you singing and smiling.
On Sunday at 7.30pm the Haverhill Silver Band return to the arts centre with 'A Night at the Movies'. They will perform scores written for popular films throughout cinema history, ensuring there will be something that everyone will recognise and enjoy.
Join Lisa Faye on a musical journey on Friday November 11 at 7.30pm. Streisand – The Main Event covers the vast career of Barbara Streisand from her first intimately-recorded standard, You'll Never Know, through to award-winning films like Funny Girl, hits such as Woman In Love and also including lesser known gems linked with interesting anecdotes about Streisand and her music.
This is not a straight 'tribute' show; Lisa's skilled interpretation of Streisand's songs has gained much critical acclaim and is testament to the fact she is a powerful and accomplished singer in her own right.
Upcoming dates for your diary: An Evening of Clairvoyance with Psychic Tony Stockwell on Wednesday November 23, Chapterhouse Theatre Company present Cranford at Christmas on Thursday November 24 and more chuckles with Monkey Nuts Comedy Club on Sunday November 27.

■ For more details about the shows, or to book, phone (01440) 714140 or go to www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk.

Uplifting tunes to beat gloom

A VIBRANT show of uplifting music with Martin Stephenson and the Daintees can be enjoyed at Haverhill Arts Centre next weekend.

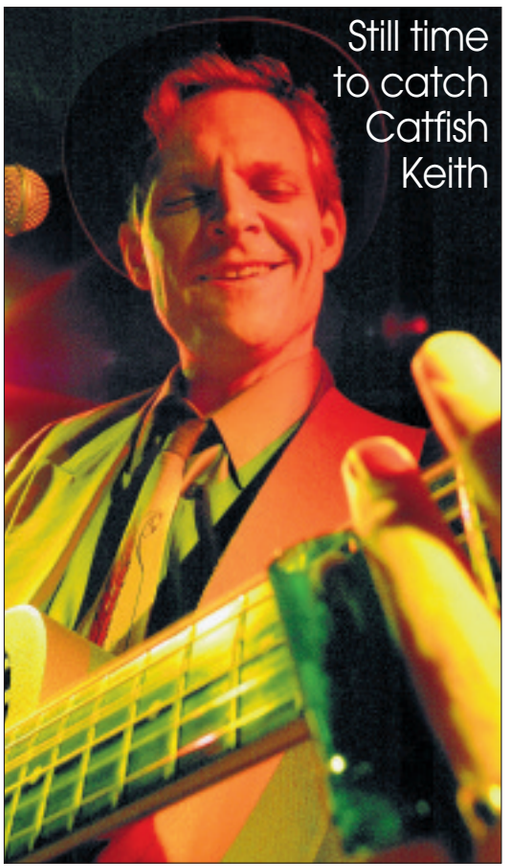

Martin Stephenson. left, is a gifted singer, songwriter, musician and performer whose career in music stretches back 30 years. He was discovered busking outside Newcastle's HMV in the early 80s with a style which incorporated rockabilly, show tunes, rock and punk.

In contrast to much of the music at the time, which was full of angst and seriousness, Martin Stephenson and the Daintees set themselves apart with their cheerful and upbeat sound.

The Daintees' debut single, Roll On Summertime, captured the promise of summer and their first album Boat to Bolivia was fit to bursting with rootsy pop songs such as Crocodile Cryer, Little Red Bottle, Running Waters and Rain.

The Daintees later produced such highly-acclaimed albums as Yogi in My House, Sweet Misdemeanour and Beyond the Leap, Beyond The Law and gained a dedicated following as they toured the UK with their live act.

To book tickets for the show on Sunday, November 13 at 7.30pm, phone (01440) 714140 or see www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk.

Still time to catch Catfish Keith

FOOT-stomping country blues will be shaking the rafters at the arts centre tomorrow.

Catfish Keith, above, is a singer, songwriter and bottleneck slide guitarist who has established himself as one of the most exciting country blues performers of his time.

His innovative style of deep delta blues and American roots music – and his dynamic stage show have spellbound audiences the world over.

The show starts at 8pm and tickets are £10, available from the box office on (01440) 714140 or from www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk.

The big film

THE ADVENTURES OF TINTIN: THE SECRET OF THE UNICORN 3D, certificate PG, 106m

TINTIN first sprang to life on the page in 1929 in the gung-ho adventure Tintin In The Land Of The Soviets. The plucky reporter with the distinctive quiff has travelled the world and even to the Moon, uncovering dastardly deeds with intrepid pooch Snowy by his side. Now, thanks to Oscar-winning film-makers Steven Spielberg and Peter Jackson, the iconic character enters the 21st century using state-of-the-art motion capture, which translates actors' movements into the performances of incredibly detailed digital characters.
The Adventures Of Tintin: The Secret Of The Unicorn is the opening salvo of a proposed trilogy, amalgamating the plots of The Crab With The Golden Claws, The Secret Of The Unicorn and Red Rackham's Treasure.
Spielberg directs the first film and it's a breathlessly entertaining romp, littered with action set pieces that would simply be unthinkable – not to mention astronomically expensive – as live action.
A dizzying motorcycle chase through the winding alleys of a Moroccan marketplace is accomplished in a single take and Captain Haddock's penchant for booze provides the hilarious spark for an explosive bi-plane flight.
A terrific opening reminiscent of Catch Me If You Can introduces us to reporter Tintin (Jamie Bell), who buys a model ship and is plunged into a centuries-old mystery involving Ivan Ivanovitch Sakharine (Daniel Craig).
Ivan asks Tintin to name his price for the boat but he refuses to sell, sensing the wooden vessel is far more valuable than it first appears. Sure enough, a cryptic conundrum lies within, revealing that "only a true Haddock will discover the secret of The Unicorn".
Assisted by trusty pooch Snowy, Tintin searches for more clues, meeting booze-sodden Captain Haddock (Andy Serkis), whose family history holds the key to the mystery of a cursed shipwreck.
The film is a hoot, and the script delivers some big laughs such as when Captain Haddock reveals that one of his crew has no eyelids.
Like most thrill rides, we're giddy during the film, caught up in the action and derring-do, but once the film ends, there's that nagging feeling that something is amiss: heart and soul.
Perhaps Tintin will unearth both in the second film, pencilled for release in 2013 with Jackson at the helm.

A spell in the glasshouse

by Hannah Stephenson

WHILE many of us will be turning up the central heating about now, others will be doing some serious pottering in the greenhouse.

Indeed, the greenhouse – heated or unheated – can provide a haven for gardeners who can still reap the rewards of edible and ornamental plants during the cooler months if you plan carefully.

If your greenhouse is unheated, you will be more limited but it is still possible to have lush, green displays of ferns, ivies, scented shrubs which will give you a delicious waft of perfume every time you go in the greenhouse and some well-chosen bulbs and alpines towards springtime.

Plant shrubs such as Daphne odora 'Aureomarginata' in pots outside and then bring them into the greenhouse at the end of the autumn. It produces pale purple-pink flowers and glossy green leaves and is a star in the winter greenhouse.

INDOOR GROWING: Sowing and planting can be done in the greenhouse during the cooler months.

Some foliage plants also look stunning in the greenhouse in winter. Fatsia japonica, with its exotic, glossy leaves, could easily be a stand-alone specimen, while shallow troughs of colourful alpines on waist-high staging, including cyclamen, chionodoxa and anemone, dwarf narcissi and colourful primulas will create a riot of colour in late winter and early spring. Scented annuals can also be wonderful in the greenhouse. Plant heliotrope or mignonette in late summer, to bloom in the greenhouse in late winter.

You can also be sowing and planting in the greenhouse over the cooler months. Many plants can be grown much earlier and produce crops sooner than would be achieved outside.

Salad leaves can be sown all year round, grow quickly and taste great when they are picked young. They are suitable for growing in pots, trays or soil borders. In winter you can also sow broad beans and early peas if you have border space.

You'll have more choice of what to grow if you have a greenhouse heater or at least a heated propagator to get tender veg off to a good start. Veg grown in traditional greenhouses, such as tomatoes, aubergines, cucumbers and peppers, are usually planted in spring.

But you can sow greenhouse tomatoes in a heated propagator as early as December, for growing on in a heated greenhouse.

You can also have fresh herbs for the winter months if you pot up clumps of mint, thyme or oregano from your garden in early autumn and put them in the greenhouse, or try sowing basil in a heated propagator in pots, nipping out any shoots that threaten to flower.

Fruit can also do well in greenhouses – and for some it's a necessity. If you've grown citrus fruits in a pot on a sunny, sheltered patio in summer, move them in and their fragrant flowers and glossy leaves come into their own. You may not harvest a lot of fruit, but seeing lemons growing just conjures up a flavour of warmer climes.

Nectarines, peaches and apricots all need warmth to survive and you're best off training them against a south-facing wall in a lean-to greenhouse. In this country if they are left outside their blossom, which appears in early to mid-spring, will generally be caught by the frost which will mean no fruit.

Decide what you want in your greenhouse over the cooler months and plan carefully, choosing plants to suit the temperature and situation of your greenhouse, heated or unheated, and try to stagger the display so you have different plants coming into their own as the season progresses.

Here are some tips to keep your greenhouse in great condition:

- Keep the glass as clean as possible at all times for maximum light.
- Check that any electrical heaters are free from corrosion and that your connections are sound. If in doubt, call a qualified electrician.
- Use sticky-backed draught excluder around ventilators, panes and doors for good, long-lasting seals.
- Remove rubbish, moss and algae growing between panes with a stick or plastic plant label.
- Give the whole greenhouse a thorough clean with hot water and garden disinfectant before a new season of use.

YOUR GUIDE TO MOVING HOME

1 Moving home can be a complicated business and, in the hectic run to the big day, it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Property News offers their readers this handy checklist that should help avoid major pitfalls. We suggest you tick off the items as you deal with them...

WITH FOUR WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move.
- ☐ Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Notify British Telecom and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Arrange for change of address cards to be printed.

WITH TWO WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Confirm all arrangements, times etc, for meter readings, disconnections and reconnections, with authorities and with your buyer and seller.
- ☐ Make sure you have a good stock of packing materials, including sturdy boxes and plenty of string and sticky tape.
- ☐ Begin to throw out unwanted items from attics, wardrobes. What you really don't want you may as well dump now, or send to charity. It's a great time for a good sort out!

WITH ONE WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Send off change of address cards.
- ☐ Arrange and pay for automatic redirection of your mail by the Post Office.
- ☐ Cancel and pay up accounts for routine delivery services such as milk, groceries, fuel and your Cambridge Evening News. Re-organise these deliveries for your new address.
- ☐ Defrost refrigerators in preparation for move and, if you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

WITH ONE DAY TO GO:

- ☐ Complete your packing except for those items you are likely to need overnight, and prepare a picnic for moving day.
- ☐ Have a large enough cash 'float' available to deal with unexpected expenses, and make sure you have collected documents and valuables together in a safe place.
- ☐ Cover carpets which are being left behind, so as to minimise damage during furniture removal.
- ☐ Check through previous lists to make sure nothing has been overlooked, then enjoy a worry-free early night!

2 ON MOVING DAY:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Pack items for washing/toiletries.
- ☐ Take down curtains.
- ☐ Take up rugs, carpets, floor coverings, as required.
- ☐ Dismantle any light fittings etc., not included in the sale.
- ☐ Turn off electric appliances.
- ☐ Disconnect cooker.
- ☐ Turn off boiler/central heating.
- ☐ Turn off water.
- ☐ Read gas meter.
- ☐ Read electricity meter.
- ☐ Secure all windows.
- ☐ Lock all doors.
- ☐ Leave key as arranged with new owners.
- ☐ On arrival at your new home, unpack slowly and methodically so that you can check for loss or damage.

Beetling ahead

Volkswagen's new Beetle is now available to order

THE new Volkswagen Beetle is now open for ordering, ahead of the first UK deliveries in spring 2012.

At launch, two engines will be available: a 1.2-litre TSI 102bhp mated to a seven-speed DSG transmission and a 1.4-litre 156bhp TSI with a six-speed manual gearbox.

Three trim levels will be available: Beetle, Design and Sport. The 1.2-litre is offered in Beetle or Design trim from £16,490 and the 1.4-litre in Design or Sport trim from £19,470. Three other engines – a 1.6-litre TDI BlueMotion Technology 102bhp, 2.0-litre TDI 137bhp and 2.0-litre TSI 196bhp – will be joining the line-up later in 2012 along with the option of a six-speed manual gearbox for the 1.2-litre TSI model. The top spec is the 1.4-litre TSI 156bhp six-speed manual Sport which is priced at £21,220.

The new Volkswagen Beetle: Priced from £16,490.

Specification levels are high. The standard Beetle comes with aircon, remote central locking, an RCD 310 CD system with DAB radio and rear Isofix seat preparation.

Moving to the mid-level Design trim adds 17-inch alloy wheels in a choice of two styles, Bluetooth telephone preparation with MDI (multi-device interface) iPod connectivity, front fog lights, an alarm, an RCD 510 DAB CD/radio, multifunction leather-wrapped steering wheel and body-coloured door and dashboard panels.

The range-topping Sport specification brings 18-inch alloys in a choice of two styles, tinted glass, cruise control, sports seats, parking sensors, gloss black door mirrors, dashboard and door panel and 2Zone electronic climate control.

A wide range of optional equipment will also be available, including keyless access, sat-nav, a panoramic sunroof and bi-xenon headlights.

The option that is expected to make the biggest impact is the Fender sound pack. Developed in conjunction with the legendary electric guitar firm of the same name, this audiophile's delight offers a 400W output and a subwoofer, along with switchable three-colour illumination surrounding the front loudspeakers for £495.

Order books open today, with initial customer deliveries expected in spring 2012.

Boosted: The new Honda Civic is due in the showroom early next year.

Improved values for 2012 Civic

HONDA'S reliability record and reputation for high quality products has helped the new Civic secure impressive residual values and improved insurance group ratings, ensuring the 2012 Civic will have some of the lowest running costs in the C-segment.

Based on a three year/60,000 mile profile EurotaxGlass's predicts the 150PS 2.2 i-DTEC ES will retain 42 per cent of its cost new price over a three year/60,000 mile period.

CAP estimates that both the Civic 150PS 2.2 i-DTEC ES and entry-level 100 PS 1.4 i-VTEC will achieve a trade value of 38 per cent of their original cost new price. This equates to £8,050 and £6,175 respectively.

The new Civic has also secured insurance group ratings four to five groups lower than the outgoing model to help drive ownership costs down even further. The entry-level 1.4 i-VTEC SE Civic boasts an 8E rating – a drop of four groups over the previous model. The same goes for the 2.2 i-DTEC top of the range EX GT which now fits into the 20E band.

"These excellent residual value predictions and insurance ratings combined with lower CO2 emissions and improved fuel consumption make the Civic very competitive," said Honda (UK) md Dave Hodgetts.

The Hyundai i40: Superb body design and build quality.

Hyundai i40 winsEuroCarBody Golden Award

THE Hyundai i40 won the Golden Award at this year's EuroCarBody Conference, held near Frankfurt, Germany, beating nine of Europe's and Japan's largest automakers to the prize.

Hyundai collected the top prize – seen as the highest accolade in the industry – having never previously entered.

Hosted by Automotive Circle International – an organisation consisting of top automotive suppliers and manufacturers – the EuroCarBody awards were judged by more than 500 attending delegates, including industry experts from across the world.

The judges praised the comprehensive engineering and effective development of materials, as well as the production efficiency of the i40 which scored 37.98 out of a maximum 50 points. The closest competitor and second-placed car, the Audi A6, scored 35.86, with the Mercedes B-Class in third place achieving 34.66.

Debate on electric option opens up as Leaf wins title

IS investing in electric cars before we've cleaned up our electricity production like putting the cart before the horse?

If you asked readers of the TheGreenCar Website.co.uk, then the answer would appear to be 'no'. Research by the website suggests that motorists believe that a dual approach makes the most sense; like training the horse while someone else builds the cart.

It has been one of the major criticisms of electric cars; that they are not really 'zero emission' because the electricity they use is largely generated by fossil fuels.

According to TheGreenCarWebsite.co.uk however, it makes sense to encourage the uptake of electric cars now as we work to clean up our electricity production at the same time. A majority of 58 per cent voted in favour of this approach, while 29 per cent thought we should focus on clean electricity production first. Just 13 per cent thought we should encourage electric car uptake no matter what.

The Business Enterprise & Regulatory Reform (BERR) reports that UK electricity production in 2010 was 75 per cent generated from coal and gas. Already this shows improvement over previous years. Back in 2007, this figure was 77 per cent. As generation from these non renewable sources has decreased, generation from cleaner sources has increased, growing 2.3 per cent just between 2009 and 2010, to take a share of 7 per cent in the total UK electricity production. Electricity generation from renewable sources such as wind and tidal may still be lagging a long way behind more popular sources but higher efficiencies make it cleaner than using fossil fuels directly in your tank.

The Nissan Leaf: Part of a new era of vehicular transportation.

According to the US Department of Energy, electric cars offer energy efficiency of around 75 per cent compared to around 20 per cent efficiency among the best that combustion cars can offer.

Plus electric cars boast the advantage of improving local air quality especially in inner city areas, where it is desperately needed.

"We need to increase renewables share of our electricity production; there is no doubt about that. In the UK, we lag behind many of our European neighbours in this sense," says the website's editor Faye Sunderland. "But even with our current electricity mix, electric cars still offer many advantages; from low running costs to a carbon footprint which can get lighter as we make progress towards cleaner power."

The news comes at the same time as the 2011 GreenFleet Awards voted the Nissan Leaf as the "Electric Vehicle of the Year" title.

"With five-door practicality, a generous boot, a high level of spec, and most importantly, a 110 mile range, the Nissan Leaf is the resounding choice this year. Add to that the take-up in fleets, from all over the UK, and it certainly means the Leaf is now the market leader, and will continue to make in-roads into fleets looking to embrace EV technology," said Colin Boyton, GreenFleet marketing manager.

The Leaf is priced at £25,990, after the £5,000 Government incentive.

The Toyota Yaris: Latest model passes Euro-NCAP tests with flying colours.

Toyota Yaris is safety champ

BY gaining the top five-star rating for all-round safety performance, new Yaris becomes the third generation of Toyota's supermini to pass through Euro-NCAP independent crash testing with flying colours.

Not only has Yaris met the highest standards for the 2011 test programme, its results were good enough to comply with the higher five-star threshold that will be introduced in 2012.

Its achievement is built on an exceptional heritage, established by the original Yaris in 2000, which was named the safest car in its class by Euro-NCAP. The second generation model went on to gain the five-star rating in 2005, and now the new Yaris has the distinction of achieving the highest mark.

The fundamental strength of the car's structure is at the heart of Yaris's ability to provide a safe environment for all occupants – adults and children. Impact forces from a front, rear or side collision are dispersed through strategically engineered elements in the body, minimising deformation of the cabin.

For new Yaris, specific measures were taken to improve performance in side impacts, including fitting bulkheads inside the rocker panels that help ensure the efficient transfer of impact loads and reduce the risk of the rockers breaking. More protection is provided by side impact bars fitted in the doors.

New Yaris is equipped as standard with seven airbags, including a driver's knee airbag. The driver and front passenger side airbags have a new two-chamber design that improves protection with larger cushions – eight litres for the thorax/abdomen area and 4.5 litres for the pelvis.

There are also numerous features designed to reduce the risk of injuries to pedestrians. The front bumper contains energy absorbing materials that reduce the impact energy directed at a pedestrian's legs, and a pantograph bonnet structure also absorbs energy to protect the head and body in a collision. There is a crushable cowl louvre at the rear edge of the bonnet, and the front wings have an impact absorbing brackets.

New Yaris further benefits from a comprehensive package of active safety systems, including ABS, Electronic Brakeforce Distribution, Corner Stability Control, Brake Assist, Traction Control and Vehicle Stability Control.

Seat expands Young Driver programme to the disabled

THE successful Seat Young Driver programme is broadening its appeal still further with the news that it is soon to be made available to disabled youngsters.

By the end of the month young wheelchair users aged 11 years and up will be able to take driving lessons with the programme, which is sponsored by insurance giant Admiral.

The lessons, conducted by fully qualified ADI driving instructors, will take place in new Seat Ibizas equipped with DSG gearboxes and fitted with hand controls and dual controls.

Lessons began this week in Birmingham and will roll out progressively to all 11 Seat Young Driver venues nationwide.

The move has been welcomed by Sophie Morgan, TV presenter and former reality contestant on BBC Three's Britain's Missing Top Model.

Sophie Morgan: 'It's fantastic', says BBC TV presenter.

Morgan, 26, who was paralysed in a car accident at the age of 18, says: "I wholeheartedly encourage any initiative aiming to help young drivers be better prepared for the road and, accordingly, lower the chance of accidents."

Last-gasp Higgs sees off Stanway

Haverhill Rov res 3
Stanway Rov res 2
Ridgeons Reserve League, South Division

HAVERHILL bounced back from the midweek defeat by Sudbury to overcome 10-man Stanway in a physical encounter at the New Croft on Saturday.

However, they needed a goal from Jack Higgs in the last minute to seal the points.

They the lead after just six minutes when a fine run and shot from Devon Guyon was deflected by the Stanway keeper into the path of Ryan Weaver, who side-footed into the open net.

With the returning Ross Elkins and Higgs appearing dominant in midfield, Rovers got on top, and the Stanway cause was not helped when they were reduced to 10 men after Harry Yearling was sent off for verbally abusing the home official after 37 minutes. Things got even better for Rovers a minute later when a long raking ball from Higgs found Weaver sprinting through the centre of the Stanway defence, and he fired in.

However, Stanway reorganised at the break and seemed determined to use their physical strength to out-muscle the young Rovers team.

They pulled a goal back from the penalty spot on the hour, and only a fine save by Michael Bavester prevented them from equalising 10 minutes later.

There was little Bavester could do when, after making a fine save, the ball rolled to Jack Harrington, who fired home.

Sensing a change in fortunes, Stanway pushed forward but were undone when a fine dribble and shot by substitute Blake Kicks was parried by Daniels, and Higgs acrobatically dived full length to head the winner.

■ Rovers' first team did not have a game at the weekend, but return to action against Diss at the New Croft on Saturday.

They then have a home derby against Newmarket on Tuesday.

Wratting in the pink with Lill

WEST Wratting emerged with credit from their 2-1 defeat at Over Sports in the Kershaw League, Premier Division, with the winners' boss Dave Lill insisting it was "the best Kershaw match I've seen for three or four years".

Matt Green edged Sports ahead on 10 minutes, but Danny Hills got the visitors back on terms with a bullet header into the top corner from Owen Longley's cross from deep on the left, after good work by Tony Pearson.

Dan McGinty notched the winner just before the interval by side-footing home Ross Munro's ball into the far corner.

Lill was thrilled with the victory, but felt both sides came out of the game with great credit.

He said: "The football was superb from both teams. Both sides really went for it and it was the best Kershaw match I've seen for three or four years.

"Wratting played the game as it should be played as well."

Brian Pilgrim, Wratting's joint boss, who had new signing Thomas Attwood making his debut from the bench after joining from defunct BIS League outfit Dullingham, said: "It was probably the best we've played for ages, even though we've lost a lot of players."

>> Martial arts

National treasures: Members of the Haverhill Tang Soo Do Korean Martial Arts Club celebrate their success at the national championships. CP

That's champion!

MEMBERS of two Haverhill-based martial arts clubs have been celebrating after achieving national championship and grading successes.

Six fighters from the Haverhill Tang Soo Do Korean Martial Arts club won nine medals at the British National Championships with Ashlea Scott-Abbink becoming a double champion after scooping the gold medals in both fighting and forms.

Scott-Abbink also earned the Steve Ingram Memorial Award for the second year in a row.

Steve Swaby won the gold medal for his forms and silver for his fighting while

Jo White, in her first nationals, won the bronze medal for her forms and her son, Daniel, returned with a silver for his fighting.

Instructor Craig Phillips said: "I'm very proud of the students that went to compete at this years championships. Everyone has been training very hard in class working on their fitness, flexibility along with forms and free fighting techniques.

"Further to this, as a club would also like to thank the Leiston Community Association, for all their voluntary hard work behind the scenes, running and maintaining the hall. Without this, the amazing results we have achieved would not have been possible."

Elsewhere, two members of Chalkstone Karate Club have created history.

Fifteen-year-old Cameron Newson became the youngest member of the club to gain a 1st Dan (Shodan) black belt.

Newson, from Slaters Drive, Haverhill, joined the club as a novice in July 2008 and instructor, Steve Hart said: "As a club we are incredibly proud of Cameron's achievement. He has worked extremely hard to prepare for the exam."

Hart himself has also been celebrating. He was successfully graded to 3rd Dan (Sandan), the highest grade achieved in the club's 30-year history.

Hart, who lives at Meadowsweet Close, Haverhill, is now officially able to use the title Sensei and was promoted after performing hundreds of combinations, combat techniques, and balance exercises.

Both Newson and Hart spent countless hours undertaking additional training at Toyakwai Karate Association headquarters in Witham in the months leading to the exam.

■ Haverhill Tang Soo Do Korean Martial Arts Club are based at Leiston Road Haverhill and train on Tuesdays from 7-9pm. The first lesson is free.

Chalkstone Karate Club also meets on Tuesdays from 7pm at the Chalkstone Community Centre. Further information from Hart on 07747 063981 or visit www.chalkstonekarateclub.co.uk
